

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. The text is arranged in two columns, with the right column containing the primary text and the left column containing a secondary column of text. The characters are highly stylized and interconnected, characteristic of a shorthand system. The right column contains approximately 12 characters, and the left column contains approximately 12 characters. The text is written on aged, yellowish paper.